Senate Bill 518 (Laird)

Date: June 13, 2022 (Amended)

Program: Alcoholic Beverage Tax

Revenue and Taxation Code section 32457

Effective: January 1, 2023

Dustin Weatherby (Division Chief) 916.274.3423

Ronil Dwarka (Revenue) 916.274.3391

Analysis Date: June 23, 2022

Summary: Adds Revenue and Taxation (RTC) code section 32457.1 to require the State Board of Equalization (BOE) to release confidential taxpayer information upon request contained in the winegrower returns and schedules filed by Alcoholic Beverage Tax (ABT) program taxpayers including the names and addresses of all taxpayers filing a return except if that taxpayer is a natural person upon request.

Summary of Amendments: The June 13, 2022, amendments require the BOE to release confidential taxpayer information upon request contained in the winegrower returns and schedules filed by ABT program taxpayers including the names and addresses of all taxpayers filing a return except if that taxpayer is a natural person.

Fiscal Impact Summary: Indeterminable.

Existing Law: RTC section 32251 requires a taxpayer to file a tax return on or before the 15th day of each month for the preceding calendar of the month, in the form as prescribed by the BOE, which may include, the amount of beer or wine or distilled spirits sold in the state, the amount of tax for the period covered in the return, or any other information the BOE deems necessary.¹ Winegrowers may be assigned a monthly, quarterly or annual reporting basis. Tax returns can be filed electronically or as paper returns.

RTC section 32455 of the Revenue and Taxation Code protects the confidentiality of any report regarding the names of the purchasers and the amounts of individual sales. Government Code (GC) section 15619 also provides, in pertinent part, that the Board and its employees may not divulge any information, other than the assessment and the amount of taxes levied, obtained by the Board in accordance with law, from any company other than one concerning which such information is required by law to be made public.

RTC section 32457 authorizes all information contained in the Vendor's Report of Beer Shipments into California may be made public.

Proposed Law: Releases Confidential Taxpayer Information. The June 13, 2022, amendments would require the BOE, upon request, to release the names and addresses of taxpayers filing a winegrower return, as well as any information contained in a winegrower return and schedule. The amendments make an exception to the requirement or disclosure of names and addresses in the case of taxpayers that are natural persons. Currently, all information contained in the winegrower return and schedule is confidential.

Findings and Declarations. The June 13, 2022, amendments add findings and declarations relating to the justification for why the legislative change is necessary.

In General: Article 20, section 22 of the California Constitution charges the BOE to administer the ABT and is constitutionally responsible for the program.

Through an Interagency Agreement (IAA), the California Department of Tax and Fee Administration (CDTFA) collects the ABT and administers the program in cooperation with the BOE. In accordance with the IAA, the CDTFA administers the day-to-day operations of the ABT, including collecting revenues, processing reports and returns, issuing determinations and providing taxpayer technical assistance while the Board handles any legal functions (including Public Records Act (PRA) requests), petitions for redeterminations and any taxpayer appeals.

If the CDTFA receives any PRAs regarding ABT, those PRA requests are promptly sent to the BOE Disclosure Office for review and determination as to what is legally considered public information.

Background: Winegrowers are required to file returns under RTC section 32251 which may include, the amount of wine sold in the state, the amount of tax for the period covered in the return, or any other information the BOE deems necessary.

The BOE has one primary confidential statute in GC section 15619, subdivision (b) which provides that the “Board is prohibited from disclosing any information other than the assessment and amount of taxes levied obtained by the Board in accordance with the law from any company other than the one concerning which that information is required by law to be made public.”

Historically, BOE provided monthly Alcohol Returns Reports (Alcohol Reports) to a small email group. The Alcohol Reports contained verified information provided by taxpayers in their 501-WG (Winegrower Return). Additionally, in 2019 the BOE Disclosure Office was forwarded a PRA from the CDTFA Disclosure Office requesting all Winegrower Return, specifically the information contained in the Winegrower Schedule (Schedule). Upon review of the request, the BOE legal department determined it was not legally appropriate to release some of the information, including information that had previously been released to the requestor. This determination and legal opinion were shared with the requestor, and they disputed the result.

The BOE Legal Department then sought legal advice from the Attorney General (AG) and were advised that not only was the Schedule data not subject to disclosure, but the entire Winegrower Return was exempt from disclosure under the PRA based on a statutory prohibition in Gov. Code, section 15619 subdivision (b).

In general, if an agency discloses a public record that is exempt from the PRA to a member of the public, “this disclosure shall constitute a waiver of” the PRA exemptions.² This exemption was evidenced in in *Black Panther Party v. Kehoe*³, where the Court found that information that was previously disclosed had to continue to be disclosed, consistent with longstanding practice. However, Black Panther Party is inapposite to the disclosure of information in the Winegrower Return. In Black Panther Party, no statutory disclosure prohibition was asserted as the basis for a disclosure exemption. Whereas the BOE is asserting a statutory disclosure prohibition under GC section 15619.

Once the BOE received the AG advice, BOE continued the practice of releasing information contained in the Alcohol Reports but removed all the identifying taxpayer information as advised by the AG. To receive the data, an individual must be on the email list maintained by BOE or request the information from the BOE.

² GC section 6254.5.

³ Black Panther Party v. Kehoe, (1974) 42 Cal.App.3d 645, 656.

Currently, the BOE releases some ABT information on the BOE's Open Data Portal (ODP) including alcohol consumption per capita, consumption per fiscal year and the alcohol tax collected.

Commentary:

1. Summary of Amendments. The June 13, 2022, amendments require the BOE to release confidential taxpayer information upon request contained in the winegrower returns and schedules filed by ABT program taxpayers including the names and addresses of all taxpayers filing a return except if that taxpayer is a natural person.
2. What is Confidential? On the current Winegrower Return, there are 60 items of data that may be filled out on the return. For the information provided in the Alcohol Reports, the BOE only redacts six pieces of data that are identifying taxpayer information: the taxpayers name and address, the account number, penalty due, interest due, and the total amount due and payable or refund claimed. Data not redacted includes: transfers of bulk and bottled wines within and outside California, wine imported into California, federal tax due, taxable transactions on which tax applies, and tax due.
3. Beer Shipper Vendor Reports. RTC section 32457 states all information contained in the Vendor's Report of Beer Shipments into California may be made public. Businesses that import beer into California must fill out Form CDTFA-1056 by the 10th of each month and must disclose all shipments of beer made into California for the preceding month. The form lists the name of the licensed importer, importer's CDTFA account number, the destination city, transportation method, the waybill, bill of lading, or freight number and date, the invoice number of the shipment and the total gallons shipped. Additionally, the form contains the shipper's account number, business name and mailing address. In contrast to the winegrower tax return, it does not contain currently confidential tax information like penalty, interest, or total amount due and payable. It does not include any calculation of tax.
4. Taxpayer Information. An integral part of California's taxation system is the protection of personal identifiable information from being improperly released or exposed. Taxpayers trust that agencies who receive their taxpayer information handle it properly and prevent their confidential information from being improperly shared. Should confidential taxpayer information be shared publicly, would this cause taxpayers to falsely report information if they are concerned with their information being made public?
5. Other ABT programs. ABT includes programs other than Winegrowers, how would the beer and distilled spirits returns be treated?
6. Processing. Processing returns and verifying they are free of calculation errors can be time consuming, sometimes requiring contacting the taxpayer. Would this bill require any return to be released even if it has not been verified error free? Additionally, is there a specific time frame for when the information must be released, or is it a case-by-case basis to allow for the verification of data?

Costs: The administrative costs to the BOE and CDTFA are minor and absorbable as there are currently procedures in place to provide public data release.

Revenue Impact: Indeterminable since it is unknown on how taxpayer compliance behavior may change due to their confidential information becoming public.
