I would like to encourage action FOR Prop. 15. Corporations have found legal ways to avoid paying the justifiable tax on their properties; for example, by ostensibly selling only a portion of their property and, thereby cutting their tax cost. In contrast, California homeowners have been paying their assigned tax. This has been disastrous for our schools and communities. Our California education has deteriorated, for lack of money to buy up-to-date books and sufficient school supplies, as well as reasonable teacher salaries, and funds to pay for counselors and school nurses. As the grandmother of two small children about to enter school, I am appalled and extremely concerned about our neglected education system.
